

Tipton Meeting House at the University of California Sedgwick Reserve

Santa Ynez, CA

COMPLETED: 2011

COST: $2.5M

Architect of Record: Thompson Naylor Architects

This new 4,000 square foot building is a nature reserve headquarters for the University of California.

The program includes a large meeting room, offices, a kitchen and lounge and has achieved LEED Platinum certification with net-zero energy use.

Sustainable features include passive solar heating, a high efficiency ground-source space conditioning system, rainwater harvesting and SFC-certified wood products throughout.

